JOHN W. DAVIS IS NOMINATED

WEST VIRGINIAN TO CARRY DEMOCRAT STANDARD IN RACE FOR PRESIDENCY; WALSH BOOMED AS RUNNING HELPMATE

Convention Overrides Opposition of Bryan and McAdoo to Select Former Ambassador.

MADISON SQUARE, July 9.—John W. Davis of West Virginia was nominated for president today by the Democratic national convention after the one-hundred and third ballot.

The opposition of William J. Bryan and the attempt of William G. McAdoo to deliver his strength to Meredith failed to stop him.

After nominating Davis the convention would have nominated Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana for vice-president by acclamation had he permitted it to do so.

Despite the roaring demand for his immediate nomination, Senator Walsh declared the convention in adjournment until 8:30 p. m. to give time for consideration of the matter. There appeared no doubt that he would be nominated at the session tonight.

Beginning with the morning's balloting, the movement for Davis gathered a momentum which could not be retarded and gradually but surely through succeeding ballots votes flopped over into the Davis column as state after state increased his lead.

Bryan's opposition to Davis was swept away in the rain of Davis votes which swept the convention. The attempt of the McAdoo forces to make Meredith the heir of the McAdoo strength commanded a following which made only a bad third and when the Davis flood was rising so fast that all other candidates were being borne before it, Iowa, Meredith's home state, withdrew him and threw its vote to Davis.

Then scenes of disorder swept the convention as one delegation after another clamored for a chance to join the winning forces. When uproar was at its height Thomas Taggart of Indiana, mounted a chair and moved the nomination of Mr. Davis by acclamation. The motion was carried with a roar and Chairman Walsh shouted into the din before him.

Declares Davis Nominated.

"The chairman declares the Hon. John W. Davis the nominee of this convention."

Immediately the tired, worn and weary convention, jubilant that the struggle had ended, which had been in the throes of a deadlock for two weeks with a prospect of going into the third week, broke loose in a demonstration of joy and relief.

Immediately all state standards which had been paraded for other candidates, some of them in the midst of hard battles on the convention floor, were snatched up and carried in a new procession of joy and jubilation.

The Montana standard was the last one in but only because there was a dispute as to who the honor of carrying it should go. The band swung into Dixie, the Battle Hymn of the Republic, Maryland and other familiar airs which had been drilled into the ears of the convention in a ceaseless fusillade of music for the last two weeks.

The Davis people, jubilant after fighting through two conventions to nominate their man, sent leaders of the delegation headed by Mrs. Izetta Jewell Brown to the platform to review the procession. They had worked hard to nominate him in San Francisco four years ago and had failed. They had worked hard here in New York and had suffered discouragement and saw his chances drop almost nothing before they won the race after breaking the deadlock between Smith and McAdoo.

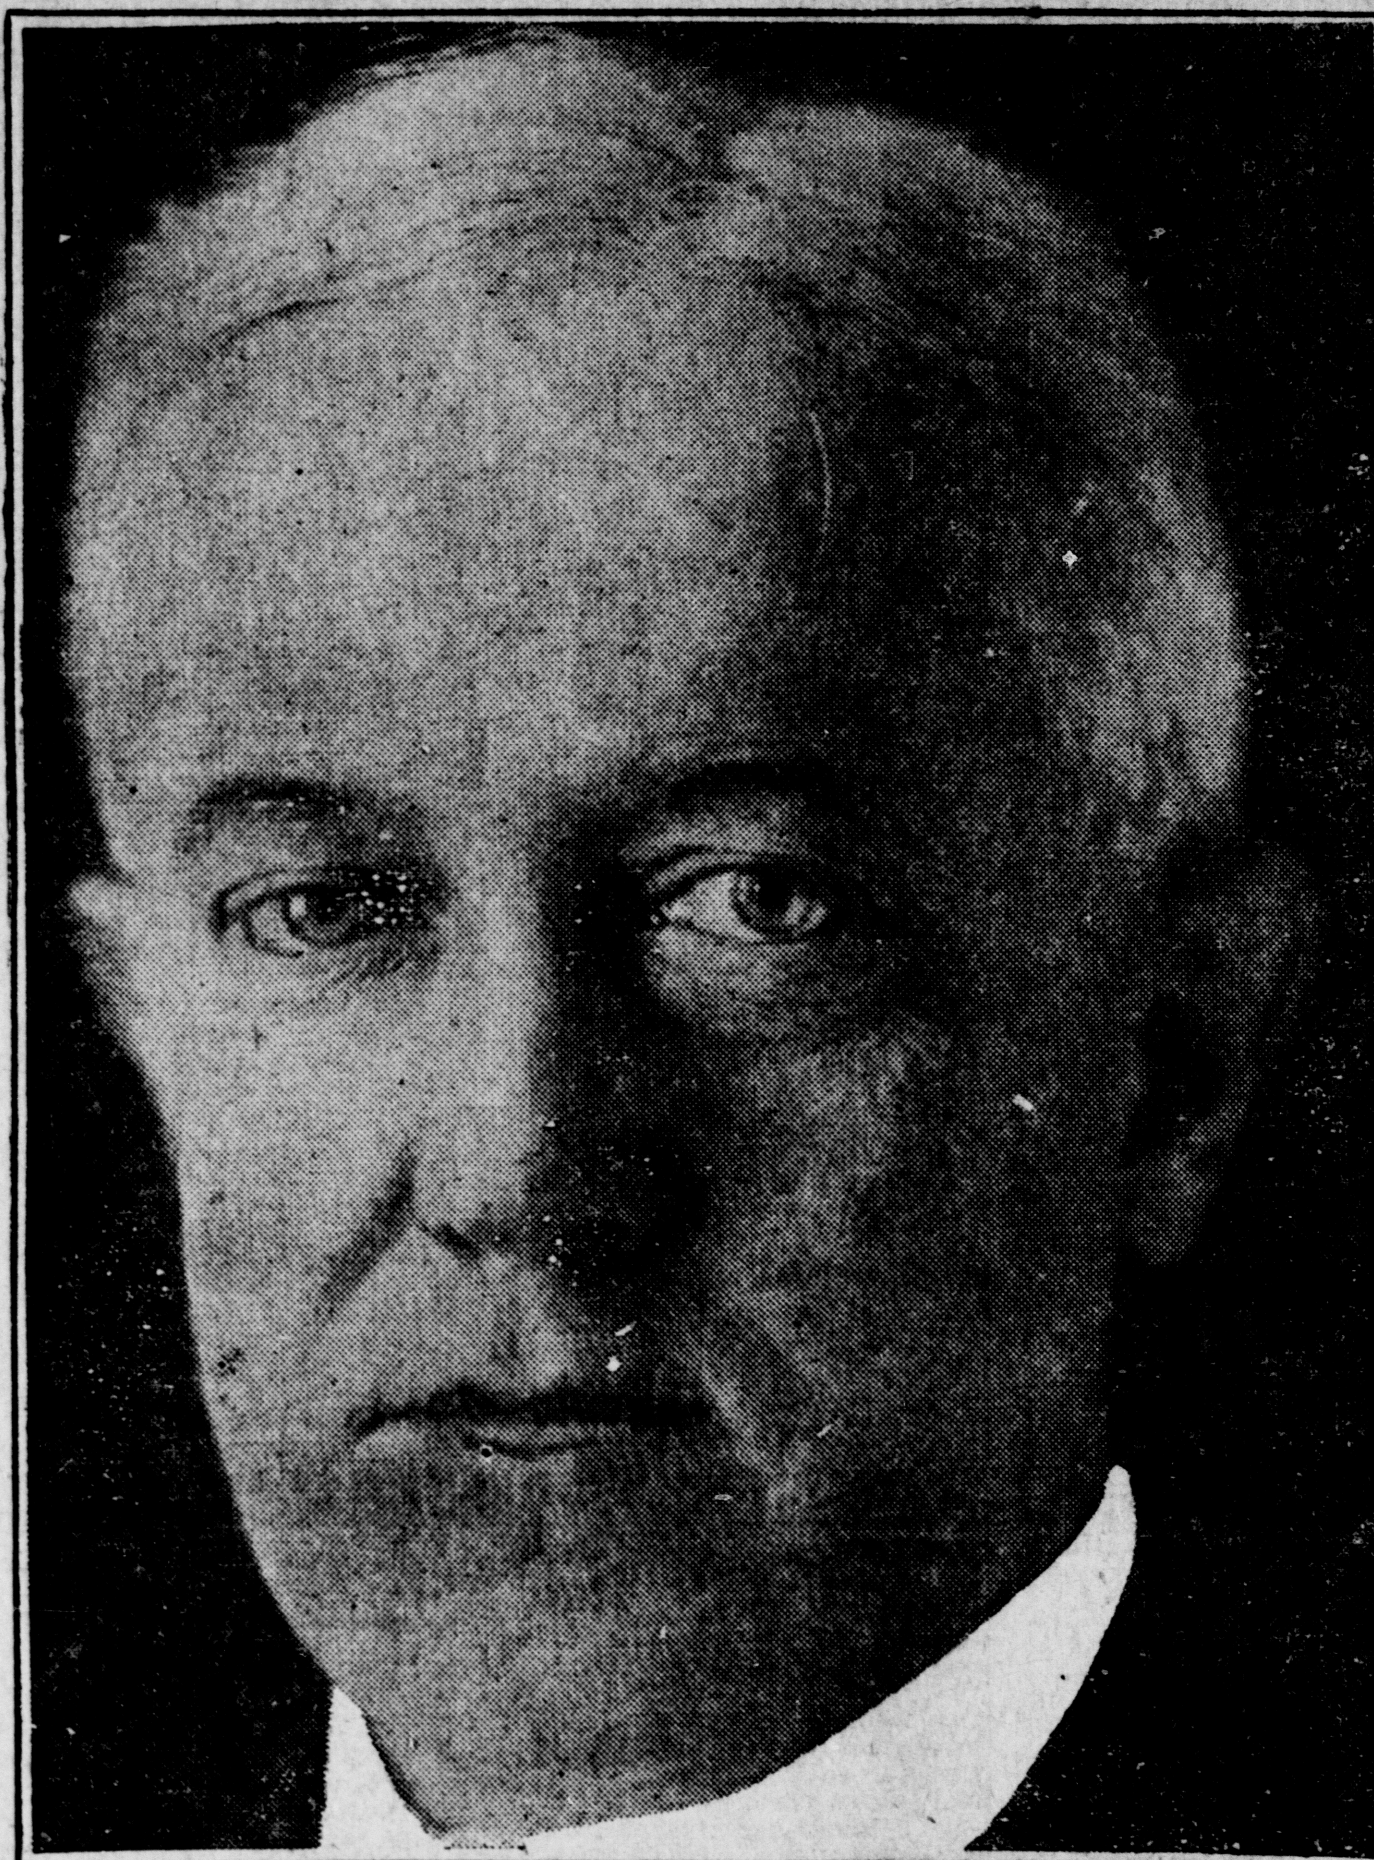

Bryan Remains Silent.

W. J. Bryan was asked if he had any comment on the nomination of Mr. Davis. He replied he had none. "Will you have any to make later?" "I don't know," said the veteran war horse.

He had gone to the platform in a futile effort to stop the Davis slide and had precipitated thereby the most spectacular row seen in recent years in an American political convention.

The jubilant paraders were only half way through their demonstration when Chairman Walsh called them for order. Then former Gov. McCorkle of West Virginia formally thanked the convention for its action. He assured the convention it had a worthy leader. He predicted that the animosities of the convention soon would be forgotten and that the Democratic hosts would be united on election day under the leadership of Mr. Davis.

SIMPLE FUNERAL AT WHITE HOUSE FOR CHIEF'S SON

Singing of Favorite Hymns And Reading of Scripture Ends Simple Rites

BODY TAKEN TO HOME

Northampton to Observe Wishes of President for Simple Funeral

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Only the setting of the historic East room of the White House with its profusion of banked flowers might distinguish the simple funeral services for Calvin Coolidge Jr., from that of any other youth of his country. Governments, and nations were permitted to pay their respects to the president's dead son but the desire of the bereaved family for simplicity ruled every detail of the arrangements.

A prayer by Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the Congregational church which the president and Mrs. Coolidge attend here, his reading of a scripture passage and the singing of his favorite hymns by a quartet was the simple rite for the late afternoon services.

Tonight the body of the youth whose death Monday cast a shadow over the White House and brought the keenest sorrow to those who had known him as a friend during the little time he had been at home, will be taken by the president's family now broken for the first time, to his boyhood home at Northampton, Massachusetts. There, amid friends, services will be held tomorrow at the Edwards Congregational church of which Calvin was a member. Later in the day it will be laid to rest beside the grave of the president's mother at Plymouth, Vermont.

To bear the body to its last resting place, six marines assigned to the presidential yacht Mayflower and six blue jackets from the yacht who have stood guard over the bier in the East room of the White House since yesterday also will proceed with the party under command of Lieut. Edgar Allan Poe. The president consented to the military guard for his son when it was chosen from among those aboard the Mayflower who had become his fast friends during the week-end trips of the presidential family on the yacht which were Calvin's happiest occasions in the White House.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge are said to have faced the ordeal of the funeral services today with the same fortitude which they have borne their heavy sorrow and John, the elder son, who lost an inseparable companion in Calvin's death, also was said to be showing as brave a front as a boy could.

NORTHAMPTON, July 9.—This city prepared today to join President and Mrs. Coolidge in the funeral services among his home town folk for Calvin Coolidge, Jr.

The body of the boy who had grown up among them will be brought here tomorrow and all business will stop for two hours in the forenoon while the funeral train is here and the services are being held at Edwards Congregational church before the body is taken to its last resting place at Plymouth, Vermont. These services will be simple as requested by the president.

Acting Mayor Pierce in a formal proclamation asking for suspension of business in tribute to the lad's memory, urged that the president's desires for simplicity be carried out in every detail. As a result the half-masting of flags was the only outward demonstration of the city's grief, plans for memorial decorations having been abandoned in deference to the president's wish.

At the church where young Calvin was a member of the Sunday school the short services will be held. Rev. Kenneth B. Wolles, the pastor, officiating. The body will be escorted from the train by 50 members of the state constabulary.

RETAIL MERCHANTS SCHEDULE FOR BANQUET THURSDAY

There will be a meeting of the Retail Merchants association Thursday evening, July 10th, with a dinner at the Harris Hotel at 6:15 p. m. Mr. W. A. Rayson, secretary of the Retail Credit Men's association of Tulsa will be here to give a talk along the lines of association work. Mr. Rayson has just returned from the convention of National Retail Credit Men's association in New York, and will have a message that will be valuable to every member. President Lucas is very anxious that a full membership attend.

DEMO CONVENTION IS NOW FINANCIAL DRAIN

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 9.—The long deadlock in the Democratic national convention has proved a severe drain on official as well as private funds.

The New York convention committee which virtually financed the big show for the first two weeks, turned this task over to the Democratic national committee this week after spending about $800,000, not including the $500 daily cost of the band and other amusement features.

The national committee with funds limited to about $100,000 promptly began to reduce the cost element and among other things 41 of the 45 ushers and a score of other employees were dropped on the theory that after two weeks all ticket holders should be able to find their seats.

Despite the retrenchment, however, it was said today that the national committee already had overdrawn its fund by $25,000.

Then Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy was recognized. He proposed a recess before nominations for vice-president were taken up. Immediately the convention responded with roars of "Walsh, Walsh, Walsh."

The blushing chairman busily rapped for order and despite the efforts of F. E. Igoe of Illinois delegation, he declared out of order nominations at that time.

When quiet was restored Chairman Walsh told the convention he was deeply sensible of the honor the convention had done him but he begged them to adjourn so that nothing might be decided in haste or without careful consideration.

He urged the convention to adjourn until 8:30 tonight to consider the vice-presidential nomination, but the only answer was "Walsh, Walsh." It seemed as if every delegate in the convention was intent on naming the senator from Montana for vice-president on the spot, but the chairman was determined and declared the convention adjourned.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, July 9.—John W. Davis of West Virginia sprang into the lead in today's balloting at the Democratic national convention with Oscar W. Underwood close behind him.

E. T. Meredith of Iowa, to whom many of the McAdoo captains were attempting to deliver their strength was a slow third.

On the one hundred and first ballot, the first one today, the new order of candidates was: John W. Davis, 316; Oscar W. Underwood, 229; E. T. Meredith, 130.

This was a gain of 1234 for Davis and a gain of 187 for Underwood. It was also a gain of 544 for Meredith. It was a loss of 2304 for Smith and a loss of 138 for McAdoo. The complete results of the ballot were:

McAdoo 42, Smith 121, Davis 316, Underwood 229, Glass 59, Robinson 224, Ritchie 98, Owen 23, Mur-

LOONEY SLATED FOR TALK HERE

State Senator to Deal With Impeachment of Former Governor Walton

State Senator J. C. Looney of this senatorial district will be in Ada next Saturday, and address the voters on the impeachment of former governor Walton. The address will be delivered on the streets at 2:30 o'clock. It may be that he will deliver another address in the evening, but this has not definitely been announced.

Senator Looney is a hold over senator and is not running for any office. The former governor has attacked him in the district, and he feels that he ought to give the citizens additional information about the impeachment proceedings.

Mr. Looney was a member of the court of inquiry which was held at Tulsa previous to the impeachment of the governor and his friends say is better informed about the facts than probably any other man in the state. He is an entertaining speaker and is said to be without a superior as a debater in the state. He challenged the former governor to meet him in debates over the district or elsewhere, but the challenge was not accepted.

President Visits Office Before His Return to Vermont

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—President Coolidge visited his office for a short time this morning. Secretary Hughes, who had returned from Philadelphia, called on him there. Mr. Hughes with Mrs. Hughes will join other members of the cabinet at the funeral this afternoon and will go to Northampton and Plymouth.

Secretaries Mellon and Hoover will not accompany the funeral party, the former being in Europe and Mr. Hoover in California.

Government departments were ordered by their heads closed at 3 p. m. No official instructions went out but each department acting for itself decided to suspend business during the hour of the funeral services.

Premiers Send in Joint Note Seeking Dawes Plan Clarity

(By the Associated Press)

PARIS, July 9.—A joint note to the allies suggesting how to handle the questions growing out of the application of the Dawes plan was drawn up at a conference between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Herriot of France, the British premier announced today.

Mr. MacDonald said the document he had drawn up with M. Herriot constituted the joint note which explained how the Dawes plan problems may be settled at the inter-allied conference which remains fixed for July 16. He declared there was no thought of postponing the conference.

STEEL UNION NOW MIXED IN TANGLE

Steel Workers Strike Brings On Suits and Counter Suits in New York

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 9.—A countersuit for $10,000,000 has been brought by the Structural Steel union from which members of the Iron League, an organization of employers, has asked $5,000,000 on the ground that a strike called last May in this city was illegal.

A court hearing yesterday on the League's petition alleging an attempt to force steel workers into the union featured a series of charges and counter charges of conspiracy, coercion and intimidation.

Council for the contractors contended that the union has sought repeatedly to force the closed shop upon the League and after calling a strike in May resorted to intimidation to keep non-union men from work.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the union, denied that the open shop question was involved. He said the contractors attempted to force each steel producer to refuse to sell to union jobs. He charged that the League violated the Sherman anti-trust law.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR RODEO HERE

Heroes of Saddle to Vie for Honors Before Veterans in Convention Here

Heroes of the saddle from the great, open, dusty spaces of the Southwest will vie for prizes and honors at the American Legion Rodeo to be held here during the Oklahoma Departmental Legion convention, July 23 and 29.

An attractive list of prizes offered by Keith Underhill, well known rodeo promoter from Mill Creek, is expected to draw in a horde of amateurs from this section of the state to compete in contents announced with the rodeo.

The rodeo will be featured as a special attraction for the state legion convention to be held here during the latter part of this month.

Bull dogging, trick riding and roping and other feature attractions will be performed by some of the leading saddle acrobats of the country, assuring veterans and others who witness the celebration of a touch of perfection to the show.

Following is a list of prizes offered to those competing in the rodeo:

Steer roping contest, entrance fee $10; First, $100; second, $50; third, $25. Best average for two days; First, $100; second, $50. ## BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

BE KINDLY AFFECTIONED one to another with brotherly love; in honor preferring one another; recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.—Romans 12:10, 17, 21.

Carl Williams in an editorial in the Farmer-Stockman asks if with the return of good crops and fair returns we will all go joy riding again as we did in 1919 and 1920. It's a safe bet that we will, for that is in line with the tendency of the average man. Like the famous character found by the Arkansas traveler whose house needed no roof in good weather and could not be covered when a rainstorm was on, most of us imagine that good times will go on forever and spend accordingly. The average man does not begin to economize until he feels the pinch of hard times and then it is too late. The best minds and all the newspapers of the United States warned the public that a turn in prosperity was coming when times were so flush, but the public went its way buying silk shirts, diamonds and automobiles as though such a day would never return and it is certain that not many have learned by the strenuous days they have gone through since the crash came.

The big Republican papers are all trying desperately to make the people believe Governor Bryan, Democratic nominee for vice president, is a dangerous radical. They say they form their judgment from his speech of acceptance, but none quote the dangerous and radical part to which they pretend to refer. We suspect some of these Republican defenders of Daugherty and Fall refer to this passage from Mr. Bryan's address: "The great masses of the people today are calling for progressive leadership—the buying of immunities, the issuing of permits, the hoisting of tariff schedules and the granting of government oil leases in return for campaign contributions, must be uprooted and destroyed forever." It does sound dangerous and radical to some ears we fancy.—Okmulgee Democrat.

As the American round the world fliers approach the end of their long aerial voyage the enthusiasm for them increases. They are now back on the American continent with the worst of their perilous trip behind them. Columbus won immortal fame by his discovery of America, Magellan has gone down in history as the first to sail around the earth and these American aviators will merit a high place in aerial history for their wonderful feat in circling the globe by air.

All the wild ideas of unbalanced agitators the world over in their ignorant and pitiable quest for happiness through revolutions, confiscation of property, and crime, cannot overthrow the eternal truth that the one route to happiness through poverty or government is over the broad and open highway of service. And service always means industry, thrift, respect for authority, and recognition of the rights of others.—Chickasha Star.

The Republicans have nominated a negro dentist as their candidate for congress in a New York district. It is said that this was done to win back the thousands of negro voters who were dissatisfied with voting the ticket straight year after year and never getting any recognition worth mentioning. Looks like winning the negro vote will hereafter be a leading feature of every campaign.

The friendly meeting between Dawes and Bryan is a good example for others to follow. That men who are competitors in business or opponents in a political campaign should be personal enemies is a poor commentary on human nature. The two vice-presidential candidates showed themselves big men by their meeting.

A part of Cherokee county recently voted to join Wagoner county. Several similar moves have been made since statehood and more may follow. One time a new county was created and after a year or two of existence it was declared illegal by the courts and was wiped off the map. Thus it will be seen that map makers have some trouble in keeping up with Oklahoma.

Most Oklahoma towns have received their first bale and now the season is under fair headway. From all accounts Oklahoma will be next to Texas this year in the matter of production and if the prices hold up sections that make bumper crops will be in clover.

If the people who point with glee to a man who has slipped from the path of rectitude temporarily had said a timely word perhaps it would not have happened. However, some appear to get a great deal of satisfaction out of saying "I told you so"

Let a NEWS WANT AD get it for you.

SOUL STIRRING MEETING AT TENT MONDAY NIGHT

The Monday night services at the tent was the best yet. An old fashioned gospel message was brought to a large congregation. The subject was announced the night before as the "Little Country Doctor." Luke 10:25-37 was the lesson and text. The priest and Levite were compared to a number of our modern church members that are passing the poor lost souls by that are down in the very pits of sin. The Samaritan was the country doctor with his bandages, oil and wine to bind up the wounds. A great spiritual lesson was taken from example of the Samaritan. The church members were asked "Do you have the oil and wine of God to pour in when you meet the lost?"

Many touching cases of the fallen converted in houses of the fallen and jails were related by the speaker. When the invitation was given a number asked for prayer. One man was converted and went away to do the Master's will.

The subject tonight, "The Child Sneezed Seven Times After It Was Dead."

Miss Naomi McAdams sang a special last night, John Three Sixteen, was the title of the song. She will sing several more this week.

ALL HEADLINERS IN OWEN DAVIS' "BROADWAY AFTER DARK"

"Broadway After Dark" the screen adaptation of Owen Davis' melodrama, opened yesterday to an unusually big house at the McSwain theater, ushering in its run of a week. Needless to say, all who had come attracted by the presence of the stellar cast—and many of the players are screen headlines in their own rights—were not disappointed. The performance was brilliant in detail and whole, testifying to the new type of direction exemplified by Monta Bell.

But it was because of its portrayal, vivid and unforgettable, of the hectic life of Broadway, that we were taken out of ourselves in this honest attempt to reveal via the screen the soul of the world's greatest city. The Broadway we know through fiction and fact glows and passes before us with all the fiery incandescence to be met in the great street of the greatest city in the world.

The story is spirited and appealing. Here are two types of people; the one leading moth-like, fluttering lives, where the sensation of the moment is paramount, where pleasure is sought for its heightened stimulation, and the morrow a word not known to these modern disciples of Bacchus; in the other, the bleak squalor of the lower classes, where girls steal to provide their dying mothers with necessities; where a woman who has once gone wrong has no chance to retrieve her reputation.

What happens when these two elements come together, in a social solution? This is what this picture sets out to show. It is replete with intimate touches of Manhattan life, covering every phase from the lowest to the highest points.

Let praise be given to the cast assembled into this Warner Brothers' Classic of the Screen; to Adolphe Menjou, Norma Shearer, Anna Q. Nilsson, Edward Burns, Carmel Myers, Vera Lewis, Willard Louis and others.

NEW HAMPSHIRE VOTERS GO TO POLES IN PRIMARIES

(By the Associated Press)
CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 2.—Two newspapers publishers are among the candidates for nomination for the major offices in the state primary today. Major Frank Knox, publisher of the Manchester Union and Leader, is contesting the Republican nomination for governor with Captain John G. Winant, who has served in both branches of the legislature. Fernando W. Hartford, publisher of the Portsmouth Herald, seeks to become the Republican nominee for congress in the first district with Fletcher Hale, state tax commissioner, as an opponent.

Governor Fred H. Brown, Democrat, is unopposed for re-nomination. The first district Republican congressional winner will try to capture the seat of Congressman William N. Rogers, unopposed for re-nomination by the Democrats.

Senator Henry W. Keyes, Republican, has no opposition for re-nomination, and George E. Farrand, state treasurer, is the only candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Congressman Edward H. Watson, Republican, in the second district, is opposed for re-nomination by Oscar P. Cole, a member of the executive council. The only Democratic candidate in this district is William H. Barry, former mayor of Nashua, once a major league baseball player and the party nominee for congress two years ago.

Europe Complains (Shawnee News)

America will never be able to understand Europe. Here we find Europe today accepting the made-in-America reparations plan and yet hating America for it. At least France and Germany, the two foremost combatants on the reparation issue, are hating us.

France, it appears, is complaining that although the American plan is better than any French plan has been, it is not so good as it ought to be. Germany holds a similar view as far as German interests are concerned. And both countries maintain that whatever the merits of the plan the American motive actuating it is despicable. That motive, as France and Germany see it, is nothing less criminal than a desire to restore Europe to prosperity in order that America may benefit by that prosperity.

In all frankness, Americans will admit that there is a good deal of truth in that, although unselfish American sympathy has played a big part, too. It is the German complaint which is hardest for Americans to understand. The Germans accused America of devising the whole plan in order to enrich itself at Germany's expense. The special wickedness of this country consists of being ready to lend Germany the money to start up in business again, when nobody else is willing to do so. That, to the German mind, seems clear evidence of an American plot to get Germany in its financial power. Germany is to be "mortgaged to American capital" by means of a Shylock loan paying about 8 percent, instead of the 60 percent that German money-lenders are charging their own countrymen.

Really, it seems harder to befriend Germany than it was to defeat her.

The meanest man in the United States ate a green apple so he could keep the family awake at night.

Used Kellogg's Bran 2 months—constipation gone after suffering 3 years

Three years of suffering with constipation. What happiness was his when Kellogg's Bran, cooked and unadorned, restored his health. But his letter.

"Dear Sirs: This is what I think of your bran. I would not be without it for anything in the world. For three years I used all kinds of medicines for constipation, and only got temporary relief. I was advised by a doctor to use Kellogg's Bran, and since I began using it I don't have to take pills or anything else. I have used it two months, and my constipation has left me. I feel better now than I have for three years."

Kellogg's Bran brings results because it is ALL bran. You can't fight constipation with halfway meaasures—with bran which is only part bran. It takes ALL bran to be 100 percent effective.

Because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It acts naturally—just as nature acts. It stimulates the intestine and makes it function regularly. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will refund your money.

Kellogg's Bran has a delicious nut-like flavor. Quite different from ordinary, unpalatable bran. You will like it as a cereal, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the recipes given on every package.

Eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's Bran every day—in chronic cases, with every meal. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

Cosmeticians Ask Law to Raise Beauty Shop Standards

CHICAGO—Beauty of women's faces must be protected by law, declared Dr. Nellie B. Cooper, of Baton Rouge, La., president of the American Cosmeticians' Society, at the society's convention here.

"Women's faces are far more delicate and finer than men's," said Dr. Cooper. "But men's barber shops are regulated by law all over the United States while Louisiana is the only state that has a complete law providing for the supervision of beauty shops and the proper education of beauty operators.

"More women than ever in the history of the world have come to rely on beauty treatments. There is hardly a modern girl or woman who does not go frequently to have her complexion and hair cared for and kept in their proper condition of beauty. Manipulations, treatments and preparations restorative of youth, brilliancy and complexion freshness that in ancient days were known only to queens, the favorites of royalty and the famous beauties of the ages, are now available to every woman. It is vitally important that this delicate beauty of woman that is her most precious possession be entrusted only to skilled and licensed operators.

"Beauty arts and hair treatments have gone far beyond the stage when they can be safely entrusted to insufficiently trained operators. Hundreds of thousands of women are going daily to beauty shops. They are entitled both to protection and to skilled treatment. The Cosmeticians' Society is working for uniform state laws to put all beauty shops on a high standard and for the licensing by the state of operators after they have graduated from an approved course of sufficient length. This is a crusade by women. Men who are the lawmakers must be taught by women the vital necessity of this protective legislation."

HERRIN SHERIFF FACES CHARGES OF MURDER

MARTON, Ill.—Sheriff George Calligan of Williamson county was arrested by Coroner William McGowan charged with murder in connection with the death of six men at Herrin Saturday.

He was released on bonds of $10,000.

Calligan would make no comment.

State's Attorney Delos Duty said this morning he understood there was a warrant for his arrest, but said it had not been served and he knew nothing further about it.

The warrant was one of 22 charging murder in the first degree issued at Marion today against alleged participation in last Saturday's pistol battle between alleged Ku Klux Klansmen. Twenty-one of the warrants were issued by Police Magistrate Hicks of Herrin and 11 by State's Attorney Delos Duty of Williamson county at Marion.

Hotel Scandal Given Setback by Principals

By MARGARET M'DOUGALL

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"K NOW Madam Ricardo?" inquired one of the group on the hotel porch. "Well, I should smile at that! I know her intimately—intimately!" And Mrs. Bellows tossed her head and smiled.

"They say there was a dreadful scandal about her last summer, wasn't there?" inquired little Miss Jones.

Nobody had ever troubled to take any interest in dowdy little Miss Wentworth, and nobody was likely to. What aroused the antagonism of Mrs. Bellows and the rest was that she didn't seem to mind being ostracized. In fact, she had been overheard to say that she had come to The Pines for a long rest.

"Well, to begin, Ricardo isn't her name," said Mrs. Bellows. "She's some common American woman masquerading under an Italian name, they say."

"It was about young Alpenstock, the millionaire's son, you know," Mrs. Bellows pursued. "He wanted to marry her. Of course his father got furious. The end was that the woman disappeared—bought off, I suppose."

"My dears, you are all hopelessly at sea," purred Mrs. Higginson, the pork-contractor's sister. "Now I happen to know the whole story. That Ricardo woman was already married. That's how she got her name. Ricardo was some player in a cheap theater, an Italian, of course. She has entangled more young men than—"

"Oh dear! I hate to hear this talk," said little Miss Jones. "Wasn't there something said about some jewels or something?"

"Oh, you mean that diamond tiara young Alpenstock gave her? Yes, his father made no end of a fuss about it, according to the society sections of the Sunday papers."

"Well," said Mrs. Teal, "they said something about singing tonight, so let us go in and see if they are ready."

"Well, what do you think?" gasped Mrs. Bellows. "That Miss Wentworth is actually down for a song?"

"Poor little thing," said Miss Jones softly. "I should say she could sing about as well as a cat."

Despite this prognostication, however, Miss Wentworth acquitted herself really quite well.

About the middle of the concert a carriage drove up to the hotel. There was a rush to the windows to get a glimpse of the newcomers. Mrs. Bellows was the first to break the news.

"It's Cyrus Alpenstock!" she gasped. "And his wife! And his son, Claude. Now is the opportunity to find out just what happened in that wretched scandal."

Alpenstocks went away in their automobile for an all-day trip. The group upon the piazza was lamenting their absence.

"Started at six, before anybody was up, to see the country," said Mrs. Bellows. "By the way, has anybody seen that Wentworth person about this morning?"

"Do you suppose she has skipped out without paying her bill?" suggested Mrs. Higginson.

"She brought a good-sized trunk with her," answered Mrs. Bellows. "It might have contained bricks," suggested little Miss Jones.

"It's my belief," said Mrs. Bellows with conviction, "that we have seen the last of that person."

But they were destined to see Miss Wentworth again, and that very evening, for she came back in the Alpenstock's car about six o'clock.

It was Mrs. Bellows who broke the ice.

"How do you do, Mr. Alpenstock?" she said, advancing with outstretched hand. "Don't you remember me? I met you here three summers ago."

"Can't say I do," growled the millionaire, but I'm glad to know you. What's your name?"

"Er—Mrs. James Bellows," faltered the lady.

"My dear, this is Mrs. James Bellows," said Cyrus Alpenstock to his wife. "Mrs. James Bellows—my son, Mrs. James Bellows, my son's fiancée, Madame Ricardo."

"Eh?" stammered Mrs. James Bellows, staring into the face of the famous singer.

"Mr. Alpenstock and I have been engaged to be married quite some time," said the singer. "I must apologize for having been known to you under my maiden name. You see, the court gave it back to me when I divorced Mr. Ricardo. But I didn't pay him anything to leave me—he went away with another woman. And that story about Mr. Alpenstock wasn't quite true. In fact, Mr. Alpenstock seemed quite pleased with his son's engagement."

"Katie, you're the best thing that ever happened to the boy," growled the millionaire with conviction in his voice.

"And Mr. Alpenstock has given me a pearl tiara—not diamond, Mrs. Bellows. But I didn't ask for it, and there wasn't any trouble. I just wanted to set you right, you know—for the sake of Miss Jones."

The party entered the hotel, leaving the group on the piazza looking with amused interest at Mrs. James Bellows.

"In my opinion it's all a pack of lies," snapped Mrs. James Bellows wrathfully.

Of all the earthquakes on record, the most disastrous occurred in 1556, in China, when 830,000 people were killed.

Governor Bryan Says Progressives Think in Terms of Human Beings; Conservatives in Terms of Dollars

River Sioux Park, Elk Point, S. D., Sept. 2.—Gov. Charles W. Bryan, the Democratic nominee for vice-president, opened his party's Middle Western campaign here Monday with a spirited attack against the Republican administration for corruption in office, high tariff and for failure to provide relief to the farmer.

Speaking from the front porch of the farm home of Louis N. Crill, South Dakota Democratic chairman, the vice presidential nominee addressed his Labor Day message to an audience made up chiefly of farmers and laboring elements of nearby points in this state, Nebraska and Iowa.

While he did not mention specific remedies for agriculturalists, Governor Bryan urged his hearers and every farmer and wage earner in the United States to obtain a copy of the Democratic platform and carefully read it. It contained, he said, "every practical remedy for the relief and encouragement of agriculture." The Democratic party is a friend of labor, he said, adding that the word "labor," no longer applies to shop and factory workers but to those who work on the farm as well.

Governor Bryan declared the Republican administration during the past four years had struck a blow to agriculture "that can only be remedied during the next four years by the election of a Democratic president and a Democratic congress in November."

A "few" Republican members of Congress from the northwest who "have been compelled to bolt the Republican party," because it "betrayed the trust placed in that party by the farmers of the entire country," the nominee asserted, were aligned with the Democrats during the last two years and assisted them in "restoring equality before the law as it applies to the tax bill."

"If the Democratic party as a whole is progressive enough and honest enough to secure the votes of the progressive Republican senators and congressmen of the agricultural states of the northwest, are not the farmers of the northwest justified in supporting the Democratic national candidates who have been progressive in office and are now standing upon and are pledged to the most progressive Democratic platform that was ever written by a national political party?" Mr. Bryan asked.

The Democratic party, he continued, is not a party represented by blocs, factions, sections or creeds, but is one "standing on the broad Jeffersonian principle of equal rights to all and social privileges to none." Its representatives in congress, he said, "have been furnishing the votes to every scoundrel bloc that wanted a square deal and opposing every interest that has been seeking special privilege."

"Agriculture is not asking for favors," Mr. Bryan said. The farmers "are not seeking information as to how to farm," nor are they "suffering on account of their own extravagance or lack of thrift." What they want, he said, is "the handicaps and the hobbles which have been placed on them by the Republican administration removed."

The farmers were seeking demands similar to those of labor—"a sufficient price for their products to enable them to live at American standards with a margin for old age."

Governor Bryan said that "almost every social, economic and financial reform that has been adopted by this nation had its origin in the agricultural classes and they were its chief supporters."

"Our Republican opponents," he continued, "are now intimating that those residing in the great agricultural states are a dangerous element and that they are not standing on the constitution. The common people, among whom are to be found the farmers and wage earners, will give their answer in November."

Discussing agriculture at another point, the vice presidential candidate and "misuse of the Federal Reserve system" by the Republicans had reduced the per capita circulation of currency from fifty-one to thirty-nine dollars and curtailed the value of farm products and land.

"Lessening the farmer's ability to purchase the output of the highly protected industries," he asserted, "has brought about the closing of factories for several days a week and has almost killed the hen that laid the golden egg—agriculture—and it is 'some hen'."

Continuing, Governor Bryan said that Republican leaders in the east had begun to realize something must be done for agriculture. "President Coolidge," he said, "in his speech of acceptance says, 'The Republican platform recognizes that agriculture should be on a basis of economic equality with other industries.' The Republican party has said that in its platform, but it has opposed every piece of legislation that would put agriculture on an economic equality with other industries."

The Republican party's interest in the farmer, he asserted, has been "usually expressed in interest rates."

Legislative and administrative "unfriendliness" had cost the farmer and livestock producer "billions of dollars in the last four years," he declared.

Referring to Mr. Coolidge's speech again, Governor Bryan asserted the president "offers no practical or permanent remedies for relief of agriculture."

Governor Bryan compared Democratic control of national affairs from 1912 to 1920 with the Republican administration since that time, and declared that four years ago "special privilege" laid the foundation at the Republican national convention "to plunder the country through government favoritism, official privilege and administrative incompetency."

Selecting phrases from his Republican opponents' speeches Governor Bryan said, "My friend and former fellow-townsmen, General Dawes, says, 'This is a campaign of brass tacks, and our good president says that we must apply 'common sense'."

"I say that the Republicans have already gotten the farmer down to the bed rock and it is time to apply honesty in government as well as in private life if the confidence of the people in their government is to be restored and if the masses of the people are again to enjoy prosperity and contentment."

Governor Bryan again attacked "special privilege" and asked "What legislation has been passed during the past four years for the benefit of the farmer, or the wage earner, or the masses of the people, that didn't have a string to it?"

Summing up, he asserted that while the "privilege-seeking class were reaping their reward for substantially supporting the Republican party in the campaign four years ago, by securing indefensible high tariff rates, transferring a large part of their taxes to others to bear, deflating the currency and compelling the farmers to pay their loans in larger bushels of wheat and corn than they borrowed, the politicians who demanded and secured some of the highest appointive offices in the gift of the government were not overlooking their opportunity to join the 'get-rich-quick' club."

"The nation has been humiliated and the world has been shocked at the dishonesty, the incompetency, the greed, the graft and the corruption that has been uncovered by congress in connection with this administration without any assistance or encouragement on the part of the chief executive."

Mentioning against the President and his running mate, Governor Bryan said: "President Coolidge says that the issue in this campaign is common sense, and Mr. Dawes says that 'The Republican party under the leadership of President Coolidge has taken its stand firmly upon the constitution of the United States and all know where it stands.'"

"That great leader of the Democratic party, that able lawyer and statesman who has had the ability to determine what is wrong at the present time and has the courage to say so—John W. Davis—says that the issue in this campaign is 'common honesty,' and I want to add four more words and say that the issue is 'common honesty' and equality before the law."

"Who constitutes the Republican party, and are all of the leaders of the Republican party standing on the constitution with Mr. Coolidge and with Mr. Dawes?" he asked, and added "Why indulge in generalities?"

Governor Bryan then named those officials who were involved in the various scandals in Washington and continued in an interrogative vein:

"Are these high-up officials in the Republican administration who are still recognized as Republican leaders, some of them who took part as delegates in the recent Republican National convention; are they standing on the constitution with the Republican party in this campaign?"

"If so," he said, "we will request that the Republican leaders give us a modern definition of what the constitution means and whether they are standing on their own physical constitution or whether they refer to that great document that guarantees the individual his inalienable rights."

Maccabees Relief Work Proves Value of Fraternalism

DAIRY HERD

DETROIT—Fear of destitution, either in old age or childhood, is a bugaboo that can be laid for a dollar a year, according to A. W. Frye, supreme commander of the Maccabees, in an address at a fraternal conference here.

"This is not a mere theory. Our organization with a dollar a year from each of its 200,000 members has so much leeway it has to look around for ways to spend the money," said Mr. Frye. "I recently made a pathfinder tour laying out the route of the Maccabees motor caravan and took occasion to visit the Maccabees international home for the aged at Chatham, Pa. I wish anyone wanting to know what a dollar a year will do could visit that beautiful home and estate."

"Near the home is the order's model home and school for orphans. We provide sanatorium care anywhere preferred for any of our members attacked by tuberculosis or cancer. We can care for our old people and children in their own homes. We look out for all our sick and victims of other misfortunes."

"General relief funds are available for special cases as in the recent disaster at Lorain, where $1,600 was sent by first mail for rescue and relief work among our members who suffered from the tornado and flood. In fact, nothing can happen to a Maccabee that he won't find the organization ready to help and with the money to do it."

"A dollar a year is not much, but multiplied by 200,000 it is the income of $4,000,000 at 5 per cent interest. Fraternal cooperation is the secret of safety for everybody."

SOFA TOWN CRIER CALLS CITIZENS TO WORK ON ROADS

SOFA.—Conscrip labor, though only three years old, is becoming as definite a part of the life of the Bulgarian people as conscript soldiering used to be.

The highways leading out of Sofia are badly in need of repair, so recently the town crier went successively to the principal points of the city, beating a drum. The first roll was the signal for the collecting of a crowd, consisting mostly of little boys and girls. Then the crier cried:

"All male citizens between the ages of 20 and 40 are requested by the city government to report at their respective district city halls at the hour of nine Monday morning. The work to be done is the repair of roads."

Of course, it was expected that the boys and girls would notify their fathers and the authorities were evidently correct in their surmise, for on the following Monday morning at the five district city halls the labor conscripts appeared with shovels, spades wheelbarrows and carts, ready to work on the roads.

DAWES OUTLINES RELIEF TO FARM

Republican Candidate Claims
Farm Problem Most Serious Question.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 2.—Declaring the farm situation to be the most serious economic question now confronting the United States, Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for vice president, in an address here tonight presented an explanation of the purpose of the present administration in the contemplated appointment of an agricultural commission.

"We make but one promise—that the Republican party, utilizing the best minds, and those by training best fitted for the task, will bend its every energy to the study of our agricultural problem to the end that through legislation or other means, its solution may be accomplished," Mr. Dawes asserted. "Whoever promises more than this is entering into a contract which can not be filled."

The Republican nominee devoted the major portion of his address, delivered here in the heart of the agricultural middle west, to the agricultural question, taking up the causes for the recent depression in farm prices, the remedies recommended, and the prospects for the future.

Need for the appointment of "an impartial, non-partisan competent commission, under economic guidance" is imperative, Mr. Dawes said, adding that "the recent improvement in the agricultural situation must not be taken as evidence that the farmers' problem has worked out its own solution."

The problem to be solved, he asserted, resolved itself into a question of finding how "equality in earning capacity can be secured between agriculture and industry." This problem, he added, arose primarily from conditions resulting from the world war and, foremost among the causes responsible, he declared, was unregulated production. Figures were cited to show the increase in acreage over pre-war years, attention was called to the increase in taxes, the possibilities of extension of co-operative marketing were discussed, and Mr. Dawes then launched into an explanation of the agricultural commission proposal.

"The mere fact that it is not now possible to consider this question when the industry is not in the trough of a terrible depression, as it was sixty days ago, has its great advantages," he declared. "It removes that obstacle to the gaining of perspective which immersion in immediate crises always involves. In fact, there never was a better opportunity presented for the proper consideration of constructive measures relative to an industry than exists at present when a terrible experience with its lessons, is so recent and the demonstration of the ultimate effects of economic law is at the same time before."

"It is, however, one of the fundamental characteristics of human nature to be much more concerned with getting out of trouble than when once out of it, to keep from getting in again. This we must guard against, or the opportunity may be lost."

"The position outlined by the proponents of agricultural relief is evidence that they regard properly the protective tariff and restricted immigration more as a moral justification of the demands for an agricultural relief than as the cause of the recent depression."

"This is natural, for in the ten year pre-war period, the surplus of the farmers' products as at present, was sold in the world market and he bought in a protected market."

"Our policy of protection in no way eliminates the operation of the law of supply and demand within our own borders, but simply limits supply from abroad below a certain price level determined by the import duty."

"That the protective tariff was somewhat lower than that now in existence was because it was sufficient to give labor and manufacturing their American market. At that time before the war the manufacturing costs of production in Germany had not been lessened by the enormous decrease in the wages of labor there, caused by the degradation of the mark. Inflation in other European countries have not lessened other labor costs in Europe. The lower tariff, then, prevented ruinous foreign competition as the Fordney tariff does now."

"As to restricted immigration, considering the two periods of before the war and since the war, the difference in the number of immigrants is not yet such as to be a real factor in the difference in labor costs. Other reasons have operated there, including the proper organization of labor for its own protection."

"Fair consideration of all elements in the situation leads one to the conclusion that the great underlying cause for the recent depression in agriculture has been the conditions resulting from the world war."

"The recent situation in the American agricultural industry, considered by itself, is somewhat analogous to the European situation in industry at the inception of the work of the expert committee on reparations. So great was the necessity for settlement with Europe facing the abyss that almost any plan upon which the expert committee could have unanimously agreed might have been temporarily accepted for it then compelled Europe, for the first time, to think in alternatives."

"Even an unworkable plan, adopted unanimously at least might have provided the basis of a temporary economic peace. But if, influenced by nationalistic or political considerations, there had been drawn an unworkable plan, because that was the easiest—because upon its basis

CY PERKINS DUE TO DEPART FROM A'S, BIRDIES SAY

"The little baseball birdies are saying that Connie Mack is planning to trade Cy Perkins, star catcher, for whatever he can get for him in the way of players likely to bolster up the gloomy chances of the Athletics. Rated the best backstop in the league a few seasons ago, Cy is getting no better the nationalistic demagogues of the different countries would have been placated—the peace upon which Europe is about to enter would have been temporary and the chaos which would have come as a result of the inevitable failure of such a plan probably would have marked the beginning of a new dark age for that continent and its civilization."

"The worst calamity that could happen to American agriculture at this time is the adoption of an unworkable plan."

"The difference between an economic and an unwise political settlement of what is to be done for American agriculture, through new legislation, is the difference between success and failure. There must be most careful consideration of the application of economic principles and also close calculation of the probable effectiveness of any proposed remedy."

"The immediate political exigencies of the great political parties in this campaign would be settled if they could make the American agriculturalist believe in the fulfillment of an unfulfillable promise. But this must not be made a matter of political expediency. It must be considered without prejudice and from every standpoint."

"After two years of discussion upon this subject, as extensive as was ever devoted in the United States in the same space of time to an economic problem, it is at present clear that there is no consensus of either agricultural or economic opinion upon any of the proposed legislative remedies now under consideration. Under such circumstances, the same common sense method of procedure which led to the settlement of the difficulties of Europe should be followed in the search for the settlement of the American agricultural problem."

Mr. Dawes also discussed the possibility of co-operative marketing, declaring that the problems "involved in co-operative marketing should receive most serious and continuous study to the end that this form of distribution may be established on sound lines, which ultimately will bring results advantageous to the producer."

"The farmers must organize—preferably on a commodity basis," he continued, "for the purpose of improving marketing facilities where present costs are burdensome or can be reduced, and what is of equal importance, for the purpose of collection and prompt dissemination of information in intelligible form which will aid in the working out of proper seeding and planting programs."

Mr. Dawes emphasized that the agricultural question "is a national question" * a non-partisan and economic question and it must not be and can not be either discussed or settled as a party question."

FEDERAL TAX RECEIPTS GAIN IN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Total in internal revenue tax collections in Oklahoma for the fiscal year ended June 30 were $13,520,563.74 according to a report from the department of internal revenue at Washington.

Collections from income and profit taxes amounted to $11,028,419.9 and the remainder of $2,492,071.66 was derived from Miscellaneous taxes.

Last year showed a gain of 3 per cent over the total collections of $12,079,186.66 for the preceding year.

The income and profit tax collected last year, amounting to $11,028,419.98, was an increase of five percent over the $10,455,830.84 collected in 1923, but is still under the collections of $14,276,549.14 collected in the fiscal year, 1922.

The greatest increase in taxes collected for the last year is on income and profit taxes, amounting to $150,669,782.24. The next largest increase is $21,066,523.75 on cigarettes, followed by $20,133,956.13 on automobiles; $7,527,376.49 on admissions to theaters and $5,903,052.20 on value of capital stock of corporations. The greatest decrease is on transfers of estates of decedents $23,738,444.87, followed by $7,241,539.01 on automobile tires and accessories.

King's College Hospital, London, spent 10 per cent of its funds on beer, wine and spirits during the middle of the last century.

ADA TAKES SMALL END OF SCORE

Wynnewood Invaders Snatch
Victory by 5 to 4 Count;
Little Hitting

In the second game of the two-day series, this one played with Wynnewood, the Ada Independents again lost by a margin of one run, the final count showing the visitors with five and Ada with four scores. The game early developed into a pitcher's battle between Carson and Lane. Wynnewood batters found Lane in the sixth, however, and Munson was sent in to repel the invaders. With the bases loaded Munson threw wild past third, allowing two of the visitors to score, putting them two in the lead. Another scored shortly after.

Hitting was scarce on both sides. Fain grabbed off the honors of the day by sending the ball high over the left field fence for a circuit clout. Lloyd Waner and Johnson each collected a double, while Young got one single.

For Wynnewood, Stagner and Baker hit for two singles each and Knight and Carson got one-base blows.

Bases on balls were frequent, several resulting later in runs. Six Ada men reached first by this route, while Lane and Munson gave passes to five visitors. The accurate arm of Stagner, visiting catcher nipped several attempted base steals. Fain being the only one to succeed among the Ada players.

Carson struck out seven while Lane and Munson each struck out two. Ada players suffered five errors to be attached to their record while Wynnewood allowed two.

Pigeons Steer Strait Course.

BERNE, Switzerland.—An interesting test of the reliability of pigeons as message bearers was recently made by the Swiss general staff. Twenty doves were taken to the highest accessible point of the "Jungfrau" and released. The day was cloudless in the upper regions of the Alps, but all the cities and valleys were screened from view by a thick layer of fog.

Seventeen doves started in a straight line for Berne. Two started in the wrong direction, and a third became lost for a while in the valley. But the entire 20 finally reached their destination. The three erring doves were only ten minutes behind the leaders in getting home.

Locust Plague in Germany.

(By the Associated Press)

BOCHOLT, Germany.—A plague of locusts has brought a new industry to this region where the insects have been gathered by the ton and oil extracted from their bodies. The locusts came over the frontier from Holland, by countless billions, and were caught by women and boys with great baskets.

The oil is intended for airplane motors and is said to be particularly adaptable for winter flying because it does not congeal in low temperatures. Good, fat locusts retailed at about one-fourth of a cent a pound. After the insects passed through the oil extraction process the refuse was used as fertilizer.

The merchants reported heavy sales of ducking for cotton sacks Saturday, indicating that picking will begin in good earnest this week.
